

MICRON, WE BREATHE
WATER

ABOUT MICRON

For more than 30 years, Micron - part of the Pollet Water Group - offers qualitative and innovative solutions for domestic and industrial water treatment. These solutions are distributed through our extensive network of professionals across Western Europe to the end customer.

Because of our interdependence with the Pollet Water Group, we are in daily contact with suppliers all over the world who provide us with the best products and components.

Micron's mission consists in offering a fairly extensive range of products, as components or as a complete unit, to our customers. Commercial and technical support, after-sales service and flexible solutions are the foundation of our company in which we invest daily. This leaflet shows just a fraction of what Micron has to offer.

Do not hesitate to contact us if you want to know more regarding any of our products or novelties.

SYSTEMS

Water is much more than H₂O. The water you have, is not always the water you need. It can be too hard, too dirty, too salted, too smelly, According to your specific needs, Micron offers several solutions using softening, filtration, iron removal, reverse osmosis, ultrafiltration and UV.

For every type of water treatment we have a range of standard systems. If these do not meet your requirements, we will be glad to listen and work with you on developing a customized solution.

In a world where you need to stand out from the rest of the market not only customization but also personalization is the key. An attractive label, a different color and design, the choice of language, these are just a few tools to create something different, which will make your installation unique.

Micron designs and assembles, our customers install and take care of the maintenance for the end user.

Standard or customized systems, the choice is yours

COMPONENTS

In addition to our wide range of systems, we keep a large number of components in stock (2000m² in house and 15.000m² in our mother company PWG) allowing us to supply you very quickly.

Being a part of the Pollet Water Group allows us to work with renowned suppliers, their qualitative products and the most recent innovations in the water treatment world.

Valves, spare parts, vessels, brine tanks, water meters, filters, cartridges, membranes, ... everything you need to complete your entire installation is available.
